PROBING LOSS OF LUSITANIA

British Government Faces Storm of Criticism From Every Quarter

1005 ARE STILL MISSING

Zeppelin Fleet Appears Almost at Gates of London and Drop Bombs Upon a Hospital

London, May 10—The British government, through its board of trade inquire is beginning at once its probe into the loss of the Lusitania with its appealling toll of life.

Failure to safe guard the liner to port is bringing to a head popular clamor against the admiralty's policy, while tales of survivors that tend to show negligence on the part of the Lusitania's officers are arousing all England.

According to the revised figures given out today, there are yet to be recovered 1,005 bodies.

The wave of resentment among the British against Germany started by the torpedoing of the great liner with no warning, is reported to have swept thousands of additional mem into the recruiting offices and demands for reprisals are voiced on every hand.

News of a great air raid by a German fleet of Zeppelins and aeroplanes almost at the gate of London early today caused wildest excitement there. At least one woman is known to have been killed and scores of bombs were dropped all about Queen Mary's Hospital, filled with sick and wounded.

Poor aim of the aviators prevented casualties there.

According to cable dispatches, the fact that the British government is being seriously criticized for its failure to send a convoy of destroyers and the Cunard line for maintaining the regular course at slow speed is just being appreciated by the cabinet. The officials at the admiralty say there was good reason for acting as they did but make no explanation.

Although there is still doubt as to whether two torpedoes exploded, or whether the first detonation caused the big liner's boilers to letgo, Captain Turner says there is no doubt that at least two torpedoes reached the ship. Making his first statement since the steamer went down under him, the captain said today:

"I am not certain whether the two explosions— and there were two— resulted from torpedoes or whether one was a boiler explosion. I am sure however, that I saw the first torpedo strike the vessel on her starboard side. I also saw a second torpedo apparently headed straight for the steamer's hull, directly below the suite occupied by Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

"That is all that I can say until I have made by official report to the court of inquiry which has been called and over which Lord Mersey is to preside."

The funeral of Louis E. Hallar, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Hallar, who died at the home of his parents, 409 south St. Asaph street Saturday, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Leonard Lee Wells and Miss Dora Evelyn Wayland, both of this city, were married Saturday night at the parsonage of the First Baptist Church by the Rev. W. F. Watson, D. D., pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Rosenthal and daughter, Miss Janet Dreifus, and Mrs. Frank Behring, of Philadelphia, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Julius J. Wolf.

Mrs. Elmore Mudd, and little son, Clarence, of north Washington street, are visiting relatives in Charlottesville, Va.

MINISTER CALLS IT MURDER.

New York Pastor Says It Was Foul and Premeditated

New York, May 10—Rev. John Henry Jowett, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, made his sermon yesterday on the sinking of the Lusitania. "Things Which Cannot be Shaken," was the text of Dr. Jowett's sermon, in the course of which he alluded to the torpedoing of the giant Cunarder as "foul and premediated murder."

"We are passing through days when conventional standards which seemed to have the fixedness of the stars are being blown to the winds" said Dr. Jowett, "Here is a happening which pushes far beyond questions of racial frontier lines. It is not a restricted matter of nationality. It is a tremendous issue of common humanity, and for any pulpit to be silent on such an issue would be rank recreancy to the just and holy Lord. The torpedoing of the Lusitania, and sinking her without warning, and without giving any opportunity even for women and little children to escape, is a stupendous crime against our race and a colossal sin against our God.

"It is not manly and honorable warfare. It is foul and premeditated murder. It is not an advance into more chivalrous methods of struggle. It is a relapse into dark and savage barbarism."

UNITED STATES GREATLY STIRRED

All Eyes Turned on President Wilson in the Present Crisis

NOTHING GIVEN OUT

Executive Expected to Deliver Speech in Philadelphia Tonight and Define His Course

Washington, May 10—With the full proportions of the Lusitania horror known and with many evidences that the country is stirred to its depths over it, all eyes now are turned to the course which will be pursued by President Wilson and his advisers.

It is not too much to say that not only the eyes of the neutrals of the world, but those of the belligerents as well, are fastened on Washington.

Nothing has yet come from the President or the men closest to him to show what will be the action taken.

Tonight the President will deliver a speech in Philadelphia. In that speech it is generally expected he will give some indication of what is in his mind, but no definite announcement of policy is anticipated until after the Cabinet meeting tomorrow and until official reports have come from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin and Ambassador Page at London.

However, it has become plain that these officials reports are not likely greatly to change the facts of the situation as known.

Every indication is that Berlin will not only admit the sinking of the vessel, but seek to justify it on the ground— so far as Americans are concerned—that they were warned, and that it is the German policy to show no mercy to merchants ships alleged to be carrying munitions of war or other contraband.

CHILD KILLED BY STONE.

Philadelphia, May 10.—Struck in the left temple by a jagged piece of rock while watching a crowd of small boys engaged in a stone fight, yesterday afternoon, 3 year old Arthur Smith, Jr., of Frankfort, was instantly killed. Alfred Gilfry, 8 years old, is under arrest on the technical charge of murder. The little victim was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith, Sr.

Three brothers, Lawrence, Urban and Bruce Woodhouse, aged 10, 7 and 5 years, respectively, were having a stone fight with the Gilfry boy and Harry Mayberry, 6 years old, in an open space at the rear of the Smith residence. The Smith boy was leaning over his back gate, watching the flying missiles, when a sharp-pointed piece of stone passed over the heads of the three boys standing near him and struck the little fellow a glancing blow on the temple.

DEATH FROM HORSE KICK

Six Year old Girl of Fairfax County The Victim

Bertha Sowers, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs E. J. Sowers, who live on Lee Pickett's farm on Seminary Hill, in Fairfax county, three miles west of Alexandria, died at her home, yesterday afternoon from the effects of a kick by a horse.

The little girl was passing through a paddock in which the horse was enclosed Saturday afternoon when the animal reared suddenly and knocked her down with his hoofs. The horse was ordinarily gentle, but is supposed to have been made frantic by the sting of a bee. She was carried into the house and Dr. Llewellyn Powell, of this city, was summonded. She rallied quickly and it was believed that she had escaped without serious injury. Yesterday afternoon the child became violently ill and died within fifteen minutes. It is supposed that she was injured internally.

VANDERBILT DIED A HERO

Unable to Swim, He Gave Life Belt to a Young Woman

London, May 10—Thomas Slidell, of New York, who was interviewed in London yesterday, said he saw Alfred G. Vanderbilt on the deck of the Lusitania as the vessel was going down. Mr. Vanderbilt, who could not swim was equipped with a life belt but he gallantly took it off, Mr. Slidell said, and placed it around the body of a young woman. Then he went off to seek another life belt. The ship sank a few seconds later.

Mr. Slidell said that he and Herbert Stone, of New York, were sitting in the smoking room by themselves when the first torpedo struck the ship. Both men intuitively knew what had happened and they simultaneously uttered the word "torpedo." Together they left the room and went on deck, which already had acutely tilted. Mr Stone made for the upperside of the deck while Mr. Slidell moved downward. This was the last Mr. Slidell saw of Mr. Stone. Subsequently he asked a number of survivors but could not find any one who had seen Mr. Stone thereafter.

CARDINALS TRIM COLUMBIA.

Visitors Use Three Pitchers—Marines Fail to Play Yesterday

The game played Saturday between the Cardinals and Columbia A. C. was well played, with the exception of a couple of innings when the Washington lads became rattled. The visitors used three pitchers in their effort to check the batting rally of the Cardinals who were driving the ball to all parts of the park. Jack Risdon, pitched in fine style and he was ably supported by Melvin Jones, who caught his first game since his recent accident when his finger was split open. Dick Snowden carried off the batting honors, making three hits in five times up and made several difficult catches in the left field. McBride, on the second sack, played his new position in a creditable way. Bauer Risdon, and Owens shared batting honors in the two hit class. Nugent, Thompson, George Allensworth, Walter Allensworth, and Tom Sillex played well in their respective positions and shared in the victory.

The game for Sunday scheduled to be played between the Cardinals and the U. S. Marines Corps team of Washington, was called off by the Marines, because they claimed the outfield was not in as fine condition as they desired it to be, and refused to play. When assured that it was as fair for them as the Cardinals and that other teams had played thereon without objection, they objected to it neverless. The Cardinals offered to play them on the Marines grounds in Washington, but their offer was declined. A large crowd was disappointed by the game being cancelled.

SPURNED, HE SHOOTS TWO.

Disguised And Posing as Health Inspector Invades Home.

Bayonne, N. J., May 10.—A week ago Margaret Cassidy, the pretty 20 year old daughter of James Cassidy, a contractor, told Louis Felice, with whom she had been keeping company for six months that she was tired of his petty jealousies and did not want to see him any more. He tried to see her at the home of her sister, Mrs. Dennis McGee, where she was staying for a few days, but never was admitted.

On Friday bewhiskered and bespectacled and wearing a blue uniform, he rang the bell at the McGee home, announced he was a Board of Health inspector and wished to see the plumbing. He was admitted by Margaret, who led him to the bathroom. There he closed the door, tore off his disguise, and, fired at her twice, one bullet grazing her neck. She fell and as Felice ran from the room he met her sister. He fired at her twice, one bullet grazing Mrs. McGee's head and another striking her in the neck.

The women were taken to the Bayonne Hospital in a critical condition, although it is said Miss Cassidy probably will recover. Felice was lodged in jail.

Richmond Congressman Advises Coolness in Grave Situation

RELIANCE ON WILSON

Virginian, Recognized Authority on International Law, Withholds Views on Sinking of Lusitania

Richmond, May 10—"This is preeminently a time for cool thinking and careful deliberation, and not for a precipitate rushing to conclusions without a careful effort to ascertain all the facts. The sinking of the Lusitania has undoubtedly produced a grave situation, but one which I feel confident, will be set wisely by the authorities in Washington.

Congressman Andrew Jackson Montague, member of the House of Representatives from the Third District of Virginia, was extremely disinclined last night to discuss the sea catastrophe, which has temporarily overshadowed the other vast operations of the world war. In the foregoing statement he summed up his reasons for preferring to withhold an expression of opinion on the international problems raised by the Lusitania's sinking, until official Washington has itself reached some decision.

"The President of the United States and his advisers are giving the matter the most earnest study," continued Mr. Montague. "and the least that men having an official connection with the government can do is not to embarrass them by proclaiming their own views, based as they must be, on only part of the facts. They are dealing with the situation with the care and deliberation that its gravity demands. An ill-considered statement from anyone in public life is the last thing to be desired."

"I have my own views of course, as to the international law question arising from the sinking of the Lusitania," said Mr. Montague, "views, however, which may be modified by fuller information than appears now to be available. I certainly would not like to make these known until the administration has made public its views."

Mr. Montague was asked whether, in his opinion, the State Department note of February 11, warning Germany that this country "would be constrained to hold the imperial government to a strict accountability" for any acts of its naval authorities which might result in the destruction of American vessels or the loss of American lives, could be held applicable to the situation arising from the sinking of the Lusitania.

"Before that question can be answered a number of things will have to be officially established that, we know about now only in an unofficial way." replied Mr. Montague. "I have not recently read the note of February 11, and am not familiar with its exact language. As I recall it, however, it laid particular stress on the grave situation that would arise should Germany, as the result of its announced intention to inaugurate a systematic submarine warafre against the enemy's merchant marine destroy on the high seas an American vessel or the lives of Americans.

"Whether that provision is broad enough to include the loss of American lives on a merchant vessel flying the flag of one of Germany's enemies is a question that the administration as the author of the note, is best qualified to determine."

Mr. Montague was asked if, leaving out all consideration of the note of February 11, Germany's conduct in sinking the Lusitania without allowing the passengers and crew time to take to the boats, knowing that there were many neutrals aboard, was defensible from the standpoint of international law governing civilized warfare.

We must wait for its answer until all facts are known," replied Mr. Montague. "For example, it would materially affect the situation if it should be shown that the Lusitania carried any guns. The British Admiralty, it is reported, has stated that she carried no guns. That is only a report however, and its correctness would have to be definitely established. It would make a lot of difference, too, if it were shown that the vessel carried arms, ammunition or other war stores for use of the allies.

"Other question might well arise. Among these might, perhaps be the question of how far Germany's proclamation defining a war zone in the waters surrounding Great Britain modified its responsibility for the destruction of the Lusitania. Perhaps notice would be taken, too, of the warnings against taking passage on the enemy's steamers, published by the Imperial German Embassy.

"The whole matter is too grave and the consequence of error too far-reaching, to be discussed loosely and without the utmost deliberation. The whole country trusts to the President and his advisers. If they decide to call upon Congress to assist them it will be time enough then for the members to give expression to their views."

MURDER IS CHARGED

Coroner's Jury Investigating Loss of Lusitania Bring in Verdict

Kinsale, Ireland, May 10.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the deaths attendant upon the loss of the Lusitania returned the following verdict today:

"The jury find that this appalling crime was contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations, and we therefore charge the officers of the submarine, and the German emperor and the government of Germany, under whose orders they acted, with the crime of wilful and wholesale murder."

London, May 10, 3:52 p. m.—The first lord of the admiralty, Winston Spencer Churchill, stated in the house of commons this afternoon that Capt. Turner of the Lusitania had acknowledged receipt of messages from the admiralty giving him warnings and directions for the course he was to take.

MANY CHILDREN VICTIMS.

Second Cabin of Lusitania Was Like a Nursery.

Queenstown, May 11.—G. D. Lane, a youthful second-cabin passenger who was returning to Wales, from New York, was in a lifeboat which capsized by the davits as the Lusitania heeled over.

"I was on the B deck,' he said, "when I saw the wake of a torpedo. I hardly realized what it meant when the big ship seemed to stagger and almost immediately listed to starboard. I rushed to get a lifebelt, but stopped to help get children on the boat deck. The second cabin was a veritable nursery. Many youngsters must have drowned.

"We witnessed the most horrible scene of human futility it is possible to imagine. When the Lusitania had turned almost over she suddenly plunged bow foremost into the water, leaving her stern high in the air. People on the aft deck were fighting with wild desperation to retain a footing on the almost perpendicular deck while they fell over the slippery stern like crippled flies.

"Their cries and shrieks could be heard above the hiss of escaping steam and the crash of bursting boilers. Then the water mercifully closed over them and the big liner disappeared, leaving scarcely a ripple behind her.

Twelve lifeboats were all that were left of our floating home. In a time which could be measured by seconds swimmers, bodies and wreckage appeared in the space where she went down. We were almost exhausted by the work of rescue when taken aboard a trawler. It all seems like a horrible dream now."

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Seminole Land and Investment Company will be held at its principal office, No. 111 south Fairfax street, Alexandria, Virginia, on Monday, May 10, at 11 o'clock A. M. for the election of directors and the transaction of any other business that may properly come before said meeting.

No quorum appearing the meeting was not held, but was adjourned until Monday, May 17, at the same place and hour.

WILL UNVEIL MONUMENT

Impressive Services by Colonial Dames in This City on the 26th And 27th Instant.

Colonial Dames from all parts of Virginia are expected to be present in Alexandria, on Wednesday and Thursday, May 26th and 27th when the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Virginia will unveil a monument which marks the beginning of the old Braddock road in Alexandria, the route taken by General Braddock when he left Alexandria in April 1755, to fight against the French and Indians.

The monument, which is being erected in a triangle formed by the Mt. Vernon Highway and the Braddock Road, in Braddock Heights, near the northern boundery of the city, is to be comprised of cannon which were abandoned by General Braddock in 1755 in this city. For many years they were used to mark the corners of the streets but several years ago were taken up and presented to Mt. Vernon Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. This organiation through Miss Rose McDonald will on May 26th present the cannon to the Colonial Dames and Mrs James Lyon, of Richmond, will in turn present the ancient guns to the city of Alexandria.

The base of the monument is constructed of cobble stones which tradition says were placed in the streets of Alexandria by Hessian soldiers who were captured during the Revolutionary war. The stones have been cemented together in a mass and on one side will be placed a tablet bearing the following inscription: "This monument marks the trail taken by the army of General Braddock, which left in April, 1755, to defend the western frontier against the French and Indians; erected by the Society of the Colonial Dames of Virginia, May 26, 1915." On the other side the tablet reads as follows: "The cannon used here was abandoned by General Braddock at old Alexandria, April 1755. The cobblestones composing the mount were taken from the streets of Alexandria where they were placed in 1785 by act of the Virginia House of Burgesses."

The visiting Dames will arrive in Alexandria on May 26th. when they will be entertained at luncheon by the Alexandria committee. The monument is to be unveiled on the afternoon of the same day. At the conclusion of the ceremony they will be entertained by Mrs. Mary G. Powell and her daughter, Mrs. Louis N. Scott. They will spend the night in Alexandria and will leave early the following morning in motor cars for Winchester, the trip across the mountains consuming four hours, and where a mounment similar to the one erected in Alexandria and which will mark the end of the route in Virginia, will be unveiled.

The guests will then return by automobile to Alexandria and leave for their homes the same night.

The man was given 15 cents by Raymond Robey, 12 years old, on Saturday afternoon and bought a half pint of whisky for him. The latter drank a portion of the liquor and also gave some to Preston Posey, a 6 year old boy. The little Posey boy was found in an intoxicated condition by his mother.

PALL HANGS OVER QUEENSTOWN.

Twenty-three miles from Queenstown, Ireland, as the crow flies, an irregular smear of floatsam on a calm sea marks the grave of the Cunarder Lusitania, first trans-Atlantic liner sunk by a German submarine. One hundred and forty-nine of the souls who perished with her were placed in improvised morgues in old buildings bordering Queenstown harbor. They either were picked up dead or succumbed after landing. The 645 survivors are quartered in hotels, residences and hospitals, some too badly hurt to be moved. Groups are leaving town clad in misfit clothing, bound for Dublin by rail and thence by boat to Holyhead. The injuries of some are so serious that additional deaths are expected and nearly all are too dazed to understand fully what has happened.

One hundred and thirty-nine coffins enclosing the remains of victims of the great sea tragedy were today borne from the Town Hall in a monster funeral procession. A special high mass was celebrated at St. Coleman's Cathedral, with the Bishop of Cloyne officiating. Memorial services were also held wherever it was practicable.

Crape is fluttering from bell knobs in over one thousand homes in many lands, and the civilized world is standing aghast at probably the greatest horror that has occurred during any war in the history of the human race. This fearful loss of life was not on a battlefield, but upon an unarmed passenger steamer, where peaceable passengers and women and children were the victims. War has naturally many terrors, but this incident will go down in history as surpassing anything heretofore enacted on the globe.

The indignation caused by the act of the Germans, which they claim was not outside the rules of war, has caused the greatest indignation throughout the world, and expressions of papers in neutral countries are bitter.

The leading newspaper in Christiana says: "The mad and reckless actions of German submarines has now reached the culminating point. The whole world looks with horror and detestation on the event."

Another Christiana journal says: "The sinking of the Lusitania puts for the time being all other events in the background and arouses the whole world into a feeling of horror. The Germans have meant to terrify; they have terrified their friends, and terror breeds hate. German trade will feel this keenly when the war is over, especially in America."

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTOMOBILE TOLL.

Three persons were killed and a number injured in Philadelphia and vicinity by accidents to automobiles and motorcycles yesterday. Every Monday dispatches from various sections of the United States show an alarming increase in deaths and serious injury from these modern vehicles from joyriding on the previous Sunday. Many in their enthusiasm run these machine at dangerous speed and, considering the many mishaps which might occur, it is a wonder there are not many more accidents. Alexandria, so far, has been singularly free from disasters from this source, although some in this city are reckless. Automobiles and motorcycles are often driven at a dangerous gait. There have been some collision hereabouts, but so far, there have been but few persons seriously hurt. Caution should be exercised by all who take the responsibility of driving these machines, as disasters which occur elsewhere are liable to occur here.

OBSERVANCE OF MOTHER'S DAY.

Mother's Day was generally observed yesterday in churches in Alexandria. There was special music and sermons. The majority of the members of the various denominations honored the memery of their mother by wearing a white carnation.

Mother's Day is becoming recognized as one of the most impressive events of the Christian calendar. It falls on the second Sunday in May.

Some who last May appeared with red carnations in their button holes, indicative of the fact that their mothers' smiles were still encouraging their offsprings in the journey through this ever-changing world, were adorned with the immaculate white yesterday, the best of all their friends having during the past twelve months joined the great majority.

The ministers delivered appropriate sermons and referred to the noble deeds of mothers in the past history of the world, especially those who figured in the Bible.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Ten persons were killed last week in an explosion which blew up a powder factory at Fontana Liri, Italy.

The American liner New York, which sailed May 1 for Liverpool, arrived at that port yesterday afternoon. The steamer La Touraine, which left New York April 27th has arrived at Bordeaux.

A verdict of acquittal was returned, after a short deliberation by the jury in Minneola, N. Y., trying Mrs. Florence Carman on the charge of murdering Mrs. Louise Bailey at Freeport on the night of June 30 last.

Six Turkish transports have been sunk by the Russians off the Bosphorus, and two others have been sunk in the Sea of Marmora. The Turkish army has left Adrianople in the direction of Midiah, a seaport on the Black Sea.

An attempt to assassinate Roque Gonzales Garza, the convention provisional president of Mexico, was made early yesterday by troops led by General Barona, former military commander of Mexico City. Barona's troops were repulsed after severe fighting, with losses to both sides.

That Roumania cannot and will not remain neutral and that the war will be much longer of duration than most people think are two of the conclusions that former Premier Take Jonescu, leader of the opposition in the Roumanian parliament, has very definitely reached.

The attacks upon German shops in Liverpool which began Saturday, were renewed last night, as the result of the fury aroused by the sinking of the Lusitania. Most of the rioters were women, many of them relatives of the sailors of the Cunard line. Several shops were wrecked and the contents piled in the streets and burned.

Investigations reveal a state of affairs in connection with the loss of the Lusitania which appear astounding. From official sources it is learned that the Lusitania was warned of submarines. There is a vast amount of criticism among all the passengers. Most of them charge the grossest carelessness.

The story of a surgical operation performed with a penknife in an open boat after long horus of exposure is told by Dr. S. De Vocvi, an Italian survivor of the Lusitania. He said: "I went down with the ship and was in the water some hours when I managed to swim to a boat in which there were several women. I rendered first aid to one man whose arm was so badly injured I found it necessary to amputate it. I was obliged to use my penknife for the operation."

Leading neutral pro-German Catholics have strongly urged the Pope to quit Rome and take temporary refuge in Spain as soon as Italy declares war. The Pope peremptorily refused. He had been assured that his personal security will not be imperiled while the Holy See will be preserved. There is danger that communications between the Vatican and Austria and Germany will suffer, but the Pope recognizes he would commit a tremendous political error by voluntarily going into exile.

The German Embassy in Washington is being closely watched by plain clothes men of the police force as precaution against any demonstration against its inmates. The Embassy has not asked for additional protection. No demonstration was feared by the police except from persons of unbalanced minds, or some crank. Count von Bernstorff admits that yesterday morning that a letter had been received stating that the Embassy would be blown up at 1:32 this morning. He treated the letter lightly.

Two men are dead and a girl is probably fatally injured as the result of a double shooting and suicidee at Jersey Shore, near Williamsport, Pa., early Friday. Lester Poust, 28, a machinist, shot and fatally wounded Charles Holes, aged 32, a bartender, and wounded Cecilia Sowers, aged 22, a dining room girl, when he found them together in a rooming house. Poust shot both through the head and then shot himself through the mouth, dying almost instantly. The girl is in a hospital. Holes was married and leaves two daughters.

The Cunard Line issued an official statement yesterday denying the report the Lusitania carried guns. "This report has been denied by the British admiralty," the statement said, "but in view of its repetition it is emphatically denied that the Lusitania was armed in any way." Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port, of New York, also denied the report. "This report is not correct," he said. "The Lusitania was inspected as is customary. No guns were found, mounted or unmounted, and the vessel sailed without any armament. No merchant ship would be allowed to arm in this port and leave the harbor."

VIRGINIA NEWS

Miss Julia Daniel, eldest daughter of the late Senator John W. Daniel, died Friday night at the Western State Hospital.

Governor Stuart has refused to interfere with the sentence of the court in the case of John H. Harding, who is serving a term of two years for stealing between $8,000 and $9,000 from the Commonwealth Bank of Richmond, now defunct.

Charles Tilden Hill, a native and former resident of Richmond and a first cabin passenger aboard the ill-fated Cunard liner Lusitania is among the saved. Albert L. Hopkins, of Newport News, is among the missing.

Major William A. Anderson, of Lexington, former Attorney-General of Virginia, will make the address on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the Stonewall Jackson monument in Richmond on the afternoon of June 3.

M. B. Wilhelm, 51 years old, of Richmond, who was struck and seriously injured by an automobile driven by J. A. Bowery while the latter was endeavoring to teach Miss Goldie Carr how to operate the machine, died yesterday afternoon without regaining consciousness.

The itinerary of the Shriners for their transcontinental tour to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition has been completed. Departing from Richmond over the Chesapeake and Ohio at 2 oclock on the afternoon of Saturday, July 3, the nobles of the Mystic Shrine will return one month and one day later.

The High Street Baptist Church, the largest colored church in Danville, was seriously damaged by fire of mysterious origin at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Only the prompt work by firement prevented the big brick building from being destroyed, as the flames were leaping from the rear part of the church when the blaze was discovered. Incendiarism is suspected.

It is the Bristol court's decree that both Luther Canter and his 19-year old brother James Canter must die in the electric chair for assaulting and murdering Mrs. Maude Wilson. After being out only 30 minutes the jury that tried James Canter returned a verdict of guilty of assault and murder. Judge Campbell immediately sentenced the boy to death, fixing June 11 as the date for the execution, this also being the date set for the execution of Luther Canter.

Judge Richard S. Ker, of the Staunton Corporation Court, has summoned R. B. Smythe, business manager of the Harrisonburg News-Record, to appear before him Tuesday and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. The summons it at the instance of the George B. Keezell faction, which has been trying to oust Smythe from management of the consolidated papers. When Judge Ker appointed a receiver for the two companies he directed that nothing should be said in the paper concerning the fight for control. He named the People's Bank of Harrisonburg as the receiver, but permitted Smythe, if he should execute a bond for $5,000, to remain in charge 30 days to take an appeal. Smythe has run several articles arraigning Keezel and his associates.

DOCTOR LYNCHED

Drink-Crazed, He Stabs His Wife to Death in Oklahoma

Norman Okla, May 10—Dr. B. E. Ward, well known physician, was taken from the county jail here by twelve masked men at 7o'clock yesterday morning, and his body was found suspended from a tree, 2 miles from town a few hours later. It bore evidence of burning.

Dr. Ward was arrested at his home in Noble, 8 miles from Norman, after his wife was found dead with a surgeon's knife penetrating her heart.

Her sons living near the Ward home, heard a woman scream several times. When several persons had gathered outside of the Ward home, Mrs Ward told them to leave.

When she continued to scream the front door was forced and her body was found lying on the floor in the hallway. She had been stabbed twice through the heart, and the knife was left sticking in the brest.

Dr. Ward who is said to have been crazed by drink, was rushed to the county jail in this city. Shortly after the twelve masked men arrived and demanded that Dr. Ward be turned over to them.

Best Thing for a Bilious Attack

"On account of my confinement in the printing office I have for years been a chronic sufferer from indigestion and liver trouble. A few weeks ago I had an attack that was so severe that I was not able to go to the case for two days. Failing to get any relief from any other treatment I took three of Chamberlain's a new man" writes H. C. Bailey, Editor Carolina News, Chapin, S. C. Obtainable everywhere.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Woman Swept by Suction Into Lusitania's Funnel

Cork, May 10—The most extraordinary escape recorded among the survivors of the Lusitania was that of Mrs. H. L. Gwyer, the three weeks' bride of the Rev. H. L. Gwyer, a Canadian.

With her husband, Mrs. Gwyer was in one of the last boats to leave the side of the Lusitania. They were so near that the wave of the sinking ship almost swamped the boat, and Mrs. Gwyer falling overboard, was swept by the suction directly into one of the huge funnels of the Lusitania as it dipped into the water.

She was given up for lost, but in a moment, it is supposed, the seawater coming in contact with the furnace fires, created such a volume of steam that Mrs. Gwyer was shot out of the funnel to the surface again, picked up and brought ashore little the worse for her marvelous escape.

ROW MAY CAUSE TWO DEATHS

Would-Be Peacemaker and Unoffending Girl Wounded as Shooting Follows Fight Over Woman

Vineland, N. J., May 10—Two men near death and two other persons wounded as the result of a row over a woman in an alleged speakeasy in this "dry" town stirred the residents to indignation yesterday. The wounded are: Frederick Dutton, member of a prominent family, with two bullet wounds of the stomach; Isaac Ammel, fracture of the skull; Andrew Cimini, bullet wound of the hand; Jennie Spanni, 15 years old, pistol wound of the hip. Cimini had attempted to act the part of a peacemaker and the girl was an inoffensive spectator.

The bloodshed occurred at the home of Dominic Sucini, alleged by the police to have been an unlicensed resort for the bibulous early this morning.
